

MOYER TRANSFERS PROPERTY TO BANK

Colonel Pusey Finds North Penn Cashier Held House Belonging to Institution

COLFLESH FINISHING BOOKS

Another move toward assembling all the resources of the wrecked North Penn Bank occurred today with the transfer to the bank by Ralph T. Moyer, its former cashier, of the property at 2737 Gordon street.

Colonel Fred Taylor Pusey, the state's chief liquidator for the defunct bank, explained this morning the property had been acquired as collateral security and that the deed had been held by Moyer.

"Mr. Moyer did not disclose that he held the property," Colonel Pusey stated, "but I discovered it in my search of the bank's records."

Work on the tangled books of the bank is nearly completed. Walter O. Colflesh, who was head bookkeeper at the bank, has been employed in going but Colonel Pusey asserted the services of Colflesh will not be needed after this week.

The state investigator denied that Colflesh was being paid a fairly large salary for his present work at the bank. He added that the former bookkeeper had been given no promise of immunity from prosecution for the aid he has given state and county authorities.

Any Man Can Now Buy a Suit or Overcoat At as Low a Price as Any Merchant Could, For These Prices Are About Wholesale Value

Doubtless you saw the statement of William W. Wood, president of the American Woolen Co., that the cloth in a Suit that cost $4.58 in 1914 now costs $13.67, and the labor on that Suit, costing $4.98 in 1914, now costs $14.47. No mention being made of overhead charges or profits, those figures indicate that you should pay at least three times as much for a Suit to-day as in 1914; and when you consider that statement you will realize how really WONDERFUL ARE THE VALUES in this January Sale—

Men's Suits at $23.00, $26.50, $31.50, $34.50, $36.50 and $46.50

Men's Overcoats at $23.00, $26.50, $31.50, $36.50, $46.50 and $58.50

Men's Fur-lined Overcoats at $65.00, $155.00, $185.00 and $275.00

In the great Sale are also very unusual values in Men's Fur-collar Overcoats at $47.50, $67.50 and $95.00. Leather Overcoats, now $33.50, $37.50 and $46.50; Mackinaw-length, $22.50. Men's Separate Trousers, special at $6.75, $7.75 and $8.75. Youths' Long-trousers Suits, now $18.50, $29.50 and $41.50.

IMPORTANT—The Suits and Overcoats in this Sale are from our regular sources of supply—taken from our regular stock or special purchases made months ago which have just arrived—high-class, up-to-date Clothing from the Stein-Bloch Co., Hart, Schaffner & Marx, the Arnold-Louchheim Co., and other reliable manufacturers.
